Dear friends

Lessons from Ninewells

Thank you so very much for your support and prayers over the last three months. If I ever need to take this amount of time off again, I will ask you for it – rather than go through this dreadful debilitating experience again! But I learned some things during this time – especially in September when I was laid up in ward 9 of Ninewells Hospital. One lesson was that it is easier to pray for others when you are in discomfort. What I mean is that when you are on the edge, in pain or stress, it is more natural to come alongside other people’s pains and stresses. Another lesson was that, whereas on the outside, it seems that people are very different, on the inside they are the same. When you are in a hospital ward together, you have the same human needs. Whether you are an ex-offender, a businessman, a builder or a minister, we are all living and dying. We are all hopeful, longing and seeking; we are all disappointed, fragile and fearful. I don’t know if it always helps to call ourselves ‘saved’ and ‘lost’ or ‘Christians’ and ‘non-Christians’. I say this because we are all messed up, much more than we realise. We can all behave badly given a set of circumstances. It is a matter of “By the grace of God, go I.” Thank the Lord that he does challenge and change our selfish sinful human nature. Don’t imagine you are that so different from anyone else. As the apostle put it, “For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this is not from yourselves, it is the gift of God.” (Ephesians 2: 8)

Sundays at the Steeple

This November we look at the Psalms, songs about crying out that we can use ourselves. In the very month when we remember those who suffered and were lost in world conflicts, we spend Sunday mornings on the Psalms.

This December the four Sundays of Advent before Christmas give another opportunity to reflect on the enormity of the birth of Jesus Christ. It is a huge thing to believe that the stable at Bethlehem once contained the infant Son of God. Think about it. How could a cattle trough hold the living God? There is a lovely line in the children's story "The Last Battle" (last of C.S. Lewis' Chronicles of Narnia) where Queen Lucy says: "In our world too, a stable once had something inside it that was bigger than our whole world." Jesus Christ, Master of the universe, came as an outcast and lived to die for our wrongs. This infant of wonder and mighty Redeemer took upon himself our sin that we can be free and forgiven. Mary MacDonalld put it like this:

Child in the manger, infant of Mary;
outcast and stranger, Lord of all;
Child who inherits all our transgressions,
all our demerits on Him fall.

Once the most holy Child of salvation
gently and lowly lived below;
now, as our glorious mighty Redeemer,
see Him victorious o'er each foe.

Prophets foretold Him, infant of wonder;
angels behold Him on His throne;
worthy our Saviour of all our praises;
happy forever are His own.

I wish you a blessed end of 2019 and meaningful Christmas season,

Your friend and minister,

Robert A. Calvert

FAMILY PLAYGROUP

Family Playgroup continues on the first and third Saturday morning each month 10am - 12noon at The Steeple.

We are always grateful for new volunteers to help with activities, crafts and making the families feel welcome! Speak to Fiona Dixon (community@thesteeplechurch.org.uk)

Each week there are many opportunities to welcome people into our building. New volunteers are always appreciated. The following areas of church life could all do with a few more volunteers on their teams:

Open Church on Mondays and Fridays (Robert Calvert, John Clark, Howard Stevenson)

Hall supervisors and catering during the week (Helen Fettes, Heather McKenzie)

Family Playgroup on a Saturday (Fiona Dixon)

PA & Projection on a Sunday (Stephen Elwell-Sutton, Sheila Melville)

To find out what is involved speak to any of the named people or contact the church office (office@thesteepchurch.org.uk)

Season of Prayer

As the Church of Scotland continues its work on the agreed Radical Action Plan voted for by this year's General Assembly, including the recent appointment of the new Chief Officer, Rt Rev Colin Sinclair calls on Kirk members to join in prayer using a series of weekly prayers written by people from across the Church and its partners. The Moderator called on congregations in every community to "come together" in prayer and reflection, noting that the 2019 General Assembly asked for prayer after accepting a set of radical proposals which will reshape the Church of Scotland at every level over the coming years.

<https://www.churchofscotland.org.uk/worship/prayers/season-of-prayer>

Rt Rev Colin Sinclair, the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, said: "These prayers can be used personally, in Church gatherings of varied sizes or built into Sunday worship.

"This helpful resource can act as a catalyst to encourage us not just to talk about praying but actually to pray.

"Can I encourage you to look out for these prayers, to use them and the other prayer resources that are already available on the website?"

Exploring the Artist in You

Created for His Glory

Saturday 30 November

10am - 12noon at Platform Arts,
Riverside Drive

FREE admission: please email
info@newscottish.org
to reserve your space.

Is there a place in the Church for the arts? Can the arts be used in ministry? If we are made in the image of a creator God then His stamp of creativity is in us.

Join Elizabeth & Jerry Averill as they explore what scripture reveals and teaches us about the arts, and how God not only encourages the arts in His Word, but calls forth artists for His purpose.

Three Wise Hens at Christmas

Friday 13 December 7.30pm at Platform Arts, Riverside Drive.

A new play by Jerry Averill.
Three female pensioners, each with their own unique "senior issues", help each other discover through laughter and tears that they can find joy because of who Christmas celebrates - the birth of Jesus. Admission FREE! Please email info@newscottish.org to reserve your place.

Good news for Dundee!

Hope Counselling Dundee is about to start up in November with 5 trained counsellors, including the Director Dr Tricia Kiehman.

Anyone who has challenges they want to make sense of, or find the resources to cope with, might find counselling - being listened to with empathy and understanding, and not being judged - a real help.

This counselling comes from a Christian perspective, and will operate out of Downfield Mains church and The Friary.

Contact:
